F* puntF = new F

Esercizio Cosa Stampa

```
class Z {
                                                                         class D: virtual public B {
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                         public:
                                                                          D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                           virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre> class A {
public:
  A() {cout << "A() "; }
   A() {cout << "~A ";}
                                                                         class E: public C {
                                                                         public:
class B: public A {
                                                                           virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                          C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
                                                                           \underline{\underline{\mathbf{E}}} () {cout << "\mathbf{\underline{\mathbf{E}}}() } void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre> E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                           ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
B() {cout << "B() "; }
~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                         class F: public E, public D {
};
                                                                         public:
class C: virtual public B {
                                                                           void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";}</pre> F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
public:
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
                                                                          void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
  virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                           F() {cout << "F() "; }
  C() {cout << "C() "; }
virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
                                                                            F() {cout << "~F ";}
                                                                         };
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(Z);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

```
E* puntE = new E(*pe);
```

```
class Z {
                                                                    class D: virtual public B {
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                    public:
                                                                      D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                      virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre> D() {cout << "D() ";}</pre>
class A { {cout << "~D ";}
public:
  A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";}
                                                                    class E: public C {
                                                                    public:
class B: public A {
                                                                      virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                      C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
                                                                      E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre>
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";
 virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
                                                                      ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
  B() {cout << "B() "; }
                                                                     };
B() {cout << "~B ";}
};
                                                                    class F: public E, public D {
                                                                    public:
                                                                      void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";}</pre>
class C: virtual public B { F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
public:
                                                                     void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
 virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                     F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                      ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
  C() {cout << "C() "; }
  virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}
                                                                    };
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3) ==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(2);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

Esercizio Cosa Stampa A PB 3 -> E(3)

```
class Z {
                                                                    class D: virtual public B {
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                    public:
                                                                      D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                      virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      D() {cout << "D() ";}
class A {
                                                                       ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";}
                                                                    class E: public C {
                                                                    public:
class B: public A {
                                                                      virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                      C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
                                                                      E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout <<
                        "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}</pre>
                                                                      ~E() {cout << "~E";}
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
  B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                    class F: public E, public D {
                                                                    public:
                                                                      void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";}</pre>
class C: virtual public B { F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
 public:
                                                                      void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
 virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                      F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                       ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
 C() {cout << "C() "; }</pre>
  virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(Z);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

```
class D: virtual public B {
class Z {
                                                                    public:
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                      D* f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                      virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      D() {cout << "D() ";}
class A {
                                                                       ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";}
                                                                    class E: public C {
                                                                    public:
class B: public A {
                                                                      virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                      C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
                                                                      E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre>
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}</pre>
                                                                      ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
  B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                    class F: public E, public D {
                                                                    public:
class C: virtual public B {
                                                                      void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";}</pre>
                                                                      F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
 public:
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
                                                                      void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
 virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                      F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                       ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
 C() {cout << "C() "; }</pre>
  virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
                                                                    };
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

PB1->FG

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(2);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

```
class Z {
                                                                     class D: virtual public B {
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                     public:
                                                                       D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                       virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre>
class A {
                                                                       D() {cout << "D() ";}
                                                                       ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";} ١
                                                                     class E: public C {
                                                                     public:
class B: public A {
                                                                       virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                       C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
                                                                      E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre>
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                       E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}</pre>
                                                                       ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
  B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                     class F: public E, public D {
                                                                     public:
class C: virtual public B {
                                                                       void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";}</pre>
                                                                       F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
 public:
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
                                                                      void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
 virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                       F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                       ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
 C() {cout << "C() "; }</pre>
  virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=G_{f}; C
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(2);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

```
class D: virtual public B {
class Z {
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                    public:
                                                                      D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                      virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      D() {cout << "D() ";}
class A {
                                                                      ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";} class E: public C {
                                                                    public:
                                                                      virtual void f() (cout << "E::f()</pre>
class B: public A {
                                                                                                           "; C::f(Z(1));}
                                                                                                  "; f(); return this;}
                                                                      C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z)
public:
                                                                      E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre>
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}</pre>
                                                                      ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
 B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                    class F: public E, public D
                                                                    public:
class C: virtual public B {
                                                                      void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";}</pre>
                                                                     F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
public:
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
                                                                      void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
  virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                      F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                       ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
  C() {cout << "C() "; }
  virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, *pb3=pf; 🕞
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(Z);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

```
class D: virtual public B {
class Z {
                                                                    public:
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                      D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                      virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre> D() {cout << "D() ";}</pre>
class A {
                                                                      ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";} class E: public C {
                                                                   public:
                                                                                               < "E::f()
class B: public A { virtual void f() {cout
                                                                                                  ; f(); return this;
                                                                      C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f'(Z)
public:
                                                                     E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre>
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}</pre>
                                                                      ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
 B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                    class F: public E, public D {
                                                                   public:
class C: virtual public B { void f() const << "F::f() ";}</pre> F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
public:
                                                                     void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
 virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                      F() {cout << "F() "; }
 T() {cout << "C() "; }
                                                                      ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
 virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
                                                                    };
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(2);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

(pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);

```
class Z {
                                                                      class D: virtual public B {
                                                                      public:
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                        D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                        virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre>
class A {
                                                                        D() {cout << "D() ";}
                                                                         ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";} class E: public C {
                                                                      public:
class B: public A {
                                                                        virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                        C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
                                                                        E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre>
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                        E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}</pre>
                                                                        ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }
  B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                      class F: public E, public D {
                                                                      public:
                                                                        void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";} F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) " return this;}</pre> class C: virtual public B {
public:
                                                                        void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
  virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;</pre>
                                                                        F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                         ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
  C() {cout << "C() "; }</pre>
  virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(2);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

```
class Z {
                                                                     class D: virtual public B {
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                     public:
                                                                      D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                       virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      D() {cout << "D() ";}
class A {
                                                                       ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";} class E: public C {
                                                                     public:
class B: public A {
                                                                       virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                      C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre>
                                                                      E() {cout << "E() "; }
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}</pre>
                                                                       ~E() {cout << "~E";}
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
  B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                    class F: public E, public D {
                                                                     public:
                                                                       void f() const {cout << "F':f() ";}</pre>
class C: virtual public B { F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z)"; return this;}
public:
                                                                                                 "F::f(double) ";}
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre> void f(double) {cout <<
 virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                      F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                       ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
 C() {cout << "C() "; }</pre>
  virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(Z);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

```
class D: virtual public B {
class Z {
                                     A
                                                                    public:
public: Z(int x) {}
                                      1
                                                                      D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                      virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                     D() {cout << "D() ";}
class A {
                                                                      ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() "; }
  ~A() {cout << "~A ";} class E: public C {
                                                                    public:
class B: public A {
                                                                      virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                     C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
                                                                     E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14); }</pre>
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                     E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}
                                                                     ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
 virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this; }</pre>
 B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B ";}
                                                                    class F: public E, public D {
                                                                    public:
                                                                      void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";}</pre>
class C: virtual public B { F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
public:
                                                                     void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
 virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
 virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                     F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                      ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
 C() {cout << "C() "; }</pre>
  virtual ~C() {cout << "~C ";}</pre>
                                                                    };
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(2);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```

```
class Z {
                                                                    class D: virtual public B {
public: Z(int x) {}
                                                                    public:
                                                                      D \star f(Z) {cout << "D::f(Z) "; f(3.14); return this;}
};
                                                                      virtual void f(double) {cout << "D::f(double) ";}</pre>
class A {
                                                                      D() {cout << "D() ";}
                                                                      ~D() {cout << "~D ";}
public:
 A() {cout << "A() ";
  ~A() {cout << "~A class E: public C {
                                                                    public: -
class B: public A {
                                                                      virtual void f() {cout << "E::f() "; C::f(Z(1));}</pre>
                                                                      C* f(Z) {cout << "E::f(Z) "; f(); return this;}</pre>
public:
                                                                      E() {cout << "E() "; }
  void f(int) {cout << "B::f(int) "; f(3.14);</pre>
  virtual void f(double) {cout << "B::f(double) ";}</pre>
                                                                      E(const E& e) {cout << "Ec ";}</pre>
  virtual B* f(Z) {cout << "B::f(Z) "; return this;
                                                                      ~E() {cout << "~E ";}
 B() {cout << "B() "; }
  ~B() {cout << "~B";}
                                                                    class F: public E, public D {
};
                                                                    public:
class C: virtual public B {
                                                                      void f() const {cout << "F::f() ";}</pre>
                                                                      F* f(Z) {cout << "F::f(Z) "; return this;}
public:
                                                                      void f(double) {cout << "F::f(double) ";}</pre>
  virtual void f(const int&) {cout<< "C::f(const int&) ";}</pre>
  virtual C* f(Z) {cout << "C::f(Z) "; return this;}</pre>
                                                                      F() {cout << "F() "; }
                                                                      ~F() {cout << "~F ";}
  C() {cout << "C() "; }</pre>
  virtual (C() {cout << "~C"
                                                                    };
A* pa = new F; D* pd = new D; E* pe = new E; F* pf = new F; B *pb1=pd, pb3=pf; C pc=pf;
```

- NON COMPILA se la compilazione dell'istruzione provoca un errore;
- UNDEFINED BEHAVIOUR se l'istruzione compila correttamente ma la sua esecuzione provoca un undefined behaviour o un errore a run-time;
- se l'istruzione compila correttamente e non provoca errori a run-time allora si scriva chiaramente la stampa che l'esecuzione produce in output su cout; se non provoca alcuna stampa allora si scriva NESSUNA STAMPA.

```
01: F* puntF = new F;
02: E* puntE = new E(*pe);
03: pb3->f(3);
04: pa->f(1.2);
05: pb1->f(Z(2));
06: if(typeid(pb3)==typeid(F)) pb3->f(Z(2));
07: static_cast<E*>(pc)->f();
08: pe->f(2);
09: (pc->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
10: (pb3->f(Z(3)))->f(4);
11: delete pb3;
12: delete pe;
```